New Film “GODZILLA MINUS ZERO” Release Date Set for November 3, 2026

With wide theatrical release across North America beginning November. 6, 2026

Toho Co., Ltd. (Headquarters: Chiyoda-ku, Tokyo; hereinafter “the Company”) announces that the release date for the latest film in the Godzilla series, “GODZILLA MINUS ZERO,” has been decided for November 3, 2026. Since the first film in the Godzilla series was released on November 3, 1954, “November 3rd” is celebrated annually by fans as “Godzilla Day.”

Furthermore, it has been decided that the film will be released in North America starting November 6 (Fri) 2026—the same week as the Japanese release—distributed by GKIDS, Toho’s group company. This near-simultaneous release in Japan and the U.S. marks the first time such a rollout has occurred in the long history of the Japan-produced Godzilla series. Release dates for other countries and regions are to be announced sequentially.

Three years have passed since Godzilla Minus One made history as the first Asian film to claim the 96th Academy Award® for Best Visual Effects. Having secured more than 50 prestigious awards worldwide, the film took the world by storm, igniting a true Godzilla fever across the globe.

“GODZILLA MINUS ZERO”, by Takashi Yamazaki, who continues to serve as Director, Screenwriter, and VFX Supervisor, will once again make its roar resound across the world. Please look forward to future updates on GODZILLA MINUS ZERO, the full details of which have yet to be revealed.
